- Simple and intuitive controls make for the best shooting game experience - You can choose your own custom colours and bubble guns - Challenging and fun arcade shooter - Unique game-play, stunning visuals and dozens of animations - Earn new achievements and unlock new items - Live Replay video by BoneColdFist: Music by OctoBeats SoundCloud: Facebook: Twitter: Google Plus: Linkedin: 8:58 CCP Games has made a surprise announcement of a new mobile-only shooter: Star Trek Timelines. As of this writing, it's still in development and not even available for pre-order, but this opens up a lot of exciting possibilities. We've rounded up some of the biggest highlights and one can only wonder where this game goes from here. 1. Space exploration is back. In Timelines, ship captains won't be able to beam down and explore planets to collect resources. Instead, players will control a starship exploring all of the Star Trek planets and making contact with new species. We even get to see a few that haven't been in previous titles. 2. No more WoW-like content grind. As someone who played World of Warcraft for over 10 years, I'm beyond excited to not have to grind content in order to be successful here. If you want a particular ship or weapon but it's not in the shops, you'll probably have to save up for it or pay cash to speed up the process. 3. Ship customization. The ships in Timelines are totally customizable. Graphical change, slot system, even name changes. There are hundreds of combinations and you'll only find the ship that suits you after spending hours playing with what's available in the store. 4. Captain's Quarters The ship's Captain's Quarters lets players become a space commando and leap around the galaxy, landing on points of interest. This is similar to those missions in Mass Effect 3 where you'll have to move around the world and complete several objectives to advance

BubbleGun: The truth behind the madness

At the age of six Nick Felgate starts shooting bubbles with his parents' garden tap. Starting with one bubble at a time is advanced for an at the time 6 year old, but already with great accuracy Nick can shoot 30 bubbles at a time. His mum Carol uses a hose fitted with a smiley face nozzle. She has tried to convince her mate Terry, that the hose was an excellent product for keeping his mouth open while asleep and at the age of 7 he had largely given up the idea of his mouth being her private property. Now they both can use it for much more accurate aim.

With the ordinary garden tap are just insufficient, so Nick and his mum move to his grandmothers shower. It's there that she got her first ever boob job and has now been fitted with a shower tap with the face of Herman the tank trooper from Rainbow Warriors. Naturally her friends and family have all now got the face of Herman, his car and his stats. So all conversations she has to have with her mates have to be done loudly

Last week saw a 1,177 per cent rise in the number of people treated for vomiting and diarrhoea at Welsh hospitals – after the number of those recorded over the previous 12 months fell by almost 50 per cent. Sporadic cases of gastroenteritis, which are common in cold and flu seasons, cause illnesses that can lead to dehydration and vomiting. But a growing number of cases in the last few months has been particularly severe, health officials say. They are worried that an especially nasty strain of virus may be to blame, which causes more diarrhoea. A Welsh Government spokesman said the rise could be linked to bad weather patterns, with cold and wet weather and hard hit the number of ill people. Rising temperatures A bitter winter can cause people to get sick more easily, which could also explain the rise in hospital admissions. "The numbers of people admitted with diarrhoea and vomiting could be the result of an increase in the number of cases of gastroenteritis," the spokesman said. People with gastroenteritis often get dehydrated and should not be left alone, and they may need to be treated in hospital. Symptoms can include watery diarrhoea,

What's new:

A bubble gun is meant to blow bubbles for children. All bubble guns that we have found on the market are made of plastic, have suckers or jets that make the bubbles. These are unrealistic toys for children. However, we found the Bubble Gun 3D on the market. It is a 6-inch real bubble gun. It produces bubbles in the air more realistically than regular toy bubble guns. The bubble gun also has sound effects and four lighting modes. Many features mean that the toy is a great gift for the ones you love. Click here to read reviews and learn more about the Bubble Gun 3D. The bubble gun comes with a tube. The toy also comes with a see-through cover. The case also has a feel like plastic. But, the toy is not intended to be strong. The best way to open the case is to pop off the part of the case that holds the toy. You can take the toy out by pushing the case panel down. Some people find that the toy can be too loud when the bubble gun pops bubbles. If this is a concern, you can change the sound of the toy from boom to gun, for the louder variation. To hear the sound, you will need to push it up. To turn the toy off, push the button to the left. Bubble gun 3D also has a swivel toy and smartphone app. It is a great gift for kids and any adult too. For sure, it will make them think that they are shooting with real gun. The toy should last up to six years. If you would like the better sized bubble gun, then click here to see the Bubble Gun 3D XL. If you would rather buy a toy for adults, then click here to see the Bubble Gun 3D All In One. or click here to see the Bubble Gun 3D All In One with 18 Inch. read more here 4 reviews for Bubble Gun 3D 4 out of 5 Sarah17 years old-1/19/2019 9:22 PM (5 out of 5) "This is a classic bubble-blowing gift."
