Munna Michael HD Download.Q: How to convert images to video in a directory using Video.js and Vue.js I'm using Vue.js with Video.js. I'd like to convert images to video in a directory using this library. So far, I tried adding video.js to my page and used the code below. This worked but I did not like how it looked in my browser. I would like to retain the native styling. Instead of using video.js, I also tried the below. This did not work and I got an error. But above code only shows the images in the directory and not the converted video. This is my full code below. import Button from './components/Button.vue' import ButtonLoading from './components/ButtonLoading.vue' import { mapState } from 'vuex' import 'video.js/dist/video-js.min.css' export default { name: 'Movies', components: { Button, ButtonLoading }, data () { return { } }, computed: { ...mapState(['movies']) }, mounted () { } } A: You can use the function to get an instance of Video.js if (typeof Video!== 'undefined') {
